OPIC visits Appolonia City

David Bohigian, Executive Vice President of the Overseas Private Investment Corporation (OPIC), led an American government delegation on a tour of Appolonia City on 8 January. Hosted by Appolonia City CEO Bright Owusu-Amofah and GHL Bank COO Kojo Addo-Kufuor, Bohigian highlighted the partnership between Appolonia City and GHL Bank, which has received $60 million in financing from OPIC, the U.S. government agency that helps American businesses invest in new markets.

OPIC's financing for GHL Bank supports mortgage lending to low- and middle-income borrowers, helping the country address a demand for affordable housing that significantly exceeds supply. GHL Bank has partnered with Appolonia City developer Rendeavour to build a pilot project of 100 affordable homes, with plans to expand the development to over 2,000 homes.
